

1/1

1) Specifying the technology module type "Motor" for the process element Motor of the process system

2) Specifying the start address of the memory module of the process element Motor

3) Automatically allocating at least one signaling element, archive data element and/or picture element to complete the technology module "Motor"